

For this episode of our Métis Speaker Series, Darian speaks to Wayne Wapeemukwa, a Métis Citizen, filmmaker and philosopher. Throughout his life, Wayne has done extensive research on the various ways the 19th-century dispossession afflicted Métis women and how new, colonially-modern discourses of property, race, and gender turned the “plains into private property.” This episode covers the extent of his research, the complex learnings, and

Métis Speaker Series Season 2, Episode 2: Stories of Scrip with Wayne Wapeemukwa (Métis Citizen)

the outcomes for the Canadian Métis community.

To listen to the full episode click the button below.

Listen here