Introduction

[1] On May 26, 2009 the applicant, Ms. Teresa LeFrancois (nee Paquette) received a letter from the respondent, the MNBC Central Registry, indicating that her citizenship could not be validated or verified based on the qualifiers for MNBC Citizenship. Specifically, the respondent's letter highlighted:

"In regard to your application for a Métis Nation British Columbia (MNBC) citizenship card, the MNBC's Office of the Provincial Registrar must inform you that based on the definition for the Métis, ratified in September 2002 by the Métis Nation General Assembly, MNBC cannot verify your genealogical connection to the traditional Métis homeland".

However, the applicant has requested the Senate to review the applicant's citizenship application package and all related materials and decide if the process and interpretations of the registrar was consistent with the intent of the "national definition" and the MNBC Citizenship Act.

Summary of the Case Law and MNBC Legislation

a) Canadian Law

[2] Subsections 35(1) and (2) of the Constitution Act, 1982, being Schedule B to the Canada Act 1982 (U.K.), 1982, c. 11 state:

35(1) the existing aboriginal and treaty rights of the aboriginal peoples of Canada are hereby recognized and affirmed.

35(2) in this Act, "aboriginal peoples of Canada"

includes the Indian, Inuit and Métis peoples of Canada.

[3] The definitive Supreme Court of Canada case setting out the requirements for establishing a Métis constitutional right is R. v. Powley, 2003 SCC 43, [2003] 2 S.C.R. 207. At paragraph 10, the Court defined the term "Métis" as it is used in s. 35, finding that while the term does not include all individuals with mixed Indian and European heritage, it does refer to:

...distinctive peoples who, in addition to their mixed ancestry, developed their own customs, way of life, and recognizable group identity separate from their Indian or Inuit and European forebears.

b) MNBC Legislation, Policies and Procedures

[4] Section 61 of the MNBC Constitution states that a Métis means a person who self-identifies as Métis, is of historic Métis Nation Ancestry, is distinct from other Aboriginal Peoples and is accepted by the Métis Nation. The MNBC Constitution further states the following;

a) 61.1. "Historic Métis Nation" means the Aboriginal people then known as Métis or Half-Breeds who resided in Historic Métis Nation Homeland.

b) 61.2. "Historic Métis Nation Homeland" means the area of land in west central North America used and occupied as the traditional territory of the Métis or Half-Breeds as they were then known.

c) 61.3. "Métis Nation" means the Aboriginal people descended from the Historic Métis Nation, which is now comprised of all Métis Nation citizens and is one of the "aboriginal peoples of Canada" within Section 35 of the Constitution Act of 1982.

d) 61.4. "Distinct from other Aboriginal Peoples" means distinct for cultural and nationhood purposes.

[5] Articles 2, 3 and 4 of the MNBC Citizenship Act further define the MNBC Constitution definition of Métis as stated above and more specifically the process in identifying citizens.

[6] Articles 6, 7 and 8 of the MNBC Citizenship Act highlight the roles and responsibilities of the Central Registry, Registry Office and the Registrar. It further states in 8.0 that the registrar must adhere to all policies and procedures developed by the MNBC. This includes the MNBC Guidebook, Central Registry Policy and Procedures and the Senate Policy and Procedures version 3.0.

[7] Section 6.2 of the Senate Policies and Procedures ver. 3.2 highlights the process utilized when conducting a citizenship and/or central registry appeal.

Second Genealogical Opinion

a) Société historique de Saint-Boniface

[8] Ms. LeFrancois is related to another individual who previously applied for Métis citizenship. With this factor in mind, a second genealogical opinion was not requested for Ms. LeFrancois, the Senate relied on the opinion received for her family member, as the two share the same genealogical background, and provided identical information in their applications for citizenship.

Mrs. Janet La France from the genealogical department of the Société historique de Saint-Boniface supplied a second professional genealogical opinion for the other family member by letter on November 20, 2009. The letter from Mrs. La France generally indicated the following, with changes to remove the name of the specific individual addressed in the letter;

"The information submitted by your client...has been reviewed. There were a couple of lines that we could not trace in Ontario, also there is documentation missing to support the claim that these lines do indeed connect into the client's tree. As it presently stands, we were able to track the lineage back to Quebec on both the Paquette and Riel sides in question. Please note that although there is a very distant, (prior to the existence of the Métis Nation), relation to Louis Riel (as the vast majority of French- Canadians have);...ancestors do not connect into the Historic Métis Nation as they were then known or their homeland".

The Standard of Review

[9] The Senate's role is to ensure that all legislation, policies and procedures were adhered to and that the applicant has received a fair decision during the application review period. Since this appeal involves a question around the genealogical interpretation of the respondent, the Senate has relied upon a second professional opinion, that was prepared for a family member with the same genealogical background, to assist in their review. Furthermore, the Senate will adhere to the citizenship and/or central registry appeal process highlighted in Section 6.2 of the Senate Policies and Procedures ver. 3.0. The Senate further understands that the onus to prove citizenship is the responsibility of the applicant, Ms. LeFrancois, not the respondent, the MNBC Central Registry.

[10] The Senate has based this decision on the evidence supplied by the applicant and respondent and weighed this to the summary of case law at the time of the hearing.

Analysis

a) MNBC Policy and Procedure Adherence

[11] The applicant did request that a review of the policies and procedures be conducted. However, the Senate, upon review, found that the MNBC Central Registry did not violate or over-look any policies or procedures.

b) Genealogical Interpretation

[12] Both the MNBC Central Registry and the historique de Saint-Boniface indicated that they could not determine a link and/or ancestor that identified as Métis and resided within the Métis Nation Homeland.

[13] Furthermore, there was no evidence supplied that would indicate Ms. LeFrancois's genealogical ancestry held any connection to an aboriginal (First Nations, Métis or Inuit) origin.

[14] Based on the information supplied, testimony and the genealogical opinions (MNBC Central Registry and the historique de Saint-Boniface) the Senate could not identify a genealogical connection to the Métis Homeland or the presence of a Métis ancestor in Ms. LeFrancois's genealogy.

c) MNBC Legislative Adherence

[15] Ms. LeFrancois fails to comply with three parts of the National Definition as specified in the MNBC Citizenship Act. Those being;

i) Ms. LeFrancois failed to supply the appropriate documentation that proves her historic Métis Nation Ancestry.

ii) Ms. LeFrancois failed to supply the appropriate documentation that proves any Métis ancestry that connects to the Historic Métis Nation Homeland.

iii) Ms. LeFrancois failed to supply the evidence which would identify a historic Métis "distinctiveness."

Decision

[16] The MNBC Senate finds in favour of the Métis Nation British Columbia's Central Registry.

[17] It ought to be noted that should the parameters for MNBC citizenship change, or if the applicant discovers new information or documentation, that this decision does not limit or negate the applicant from reapplying for MNBC citizenship.
